As grand jury proceedings start:

Judge denies Trulock request

By LENNY INGRASSIA

While an investigative grand jury was meeting today in the Lee County Courthouse probing alleged voting irregularities, Circuit Judge John Rapp Jr., Mt. Carroll, was hearing arguments why Ted Trulock Jr. should not testify before the grand jury. Following the hour-long closed-door emergency hearing, called after Trulock was subpoenaed to testify, Judge Rapp announced denial of the request. Trulock becomes one of 22 witnesses called to testify today at the fourth session of the grand jury dealing with voting irregularities stemming from the April 15 city elections.

Judge Rapp excluded members of the press from attending the hearing; however, not before Asst. Atty. Gen. Jane Carr, representing defendants Brian David and Chuck Levad, attorney-general lawyers and State's Atty. Patrick E. Ward, indicated to the judge that the defendants opposed the motion for the emergency hearing.

Before she could continue, Judge Rapp interrupted and cited state Supreme Court cases involving Black Panther raids in Chicago, explaining the press was not to be allowed at hearings involving a witness who may testify before grand-jury proceedings. With that Judge Rapp asked the members of the press to leave the chambers of Chief Circuit Judge

James E. Bales, the location of the hearing. Shortly after 11 a.m. Judge Rapp emerged and announced he had denied the motion for a temporary injunction. He said "the court has no authority to enjoin any proceedings before the grand jury."

Judge Rapp additionally ordered that no one present at the hearing discuss the proceedings with the media. Representing Trulock, who was present with his parents, Marilyn and Ted Sr., were attorneys Henry Dixon and John Caluwaert.

None of the defendants were present at the hearing. Levad and David, accompanied by James Zagel, chief of the criminal division of the attorney-general's office, were believed questioning witnesses in the grand-jury room. Ward was in his office preparing for criminal cases he later presented to the grand jury.

Zagel is Atty.-Gen. William Scott's first assistant. His presence at today's session, although not explained, is indicative to some courthouse sources that possible indictments might be sought during this session.

Although Judge Rapp denied the emergency petition, he did say the original suit for a writ of injunction is still pending. The case was filed Aug. 28 on behalf of Trulock Jr., who is 16. It alleges that David and Levad, in the course of their investigation, repeatedly attempted to question Trulock about his involvement in the case "and have further harassed, annoyed, bothered and threatened... with criminal prosecution... if he further refused to disclose or testify as to the substance of privileged and confidential communications between himself and his attorneys."

Neither Dixon nor Caluwaert indicated they would proceed on the case following today's denial.

An air of secrecy loomed over the entire courthouse as judges, attorneys, clerks and grand-jury witnesses huddled in closed-door meetings.

The grand jury was convened at 9:30 a.m. and heard voting testimony until approximately 10:30 a.m., when the attorney-general lawyers took a recess and Ward began presenting evidence against 10 criminal offenders not related to the vote probe. Under the secrecy proceedings of the grand jury, the criminal indictments, if returned by jurors, will not be known until the jury is excused.

There was some indication that the session will be carried over to a second day of testimony, but Levad, David nor Ward would confirm the report or discuss the case in any way.

The attorney-general's staff was thrust into the investigation in early summer at the request of Ward, who asked to be taken out of the investigation for political reasons since the prime target of the investigation appeared to be high officials of the Democratic party in Lee County. Ward is a Republican.

Ward did order a police task force out on election day to check with absentee voters who had signed affidavits indicating they might be unable to vote on election day. That action was taken after then city commissioner candidates Richard Arnould and Arthur Tofte complained to Ward about the high number of absentee ballots being taken out.

Voting records in the clerk's office indicate 515 absentee ballots were taken out compared with 51 for the last city election in 1971.

Investigative reports by police who interviewed voters were turned over to attorney-general lawyers David and Levad. They would not comment on the content of the reports, however Ward commented "We found a little bit of everything" from the voters.

One woman told police a campaign worker said she could vote absentee for one candidate and then vote on election day for other candidates. Another report indicated that some names and addresses on the voting documents were non-existent.

Others called to testify today included Tim Rock, Pat Keiker, Rich Arnould, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Lally, Mr. and Mrs. Ira Nehring.

Contradictions in Patty Hearst case

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Patricia Hearst in a taped message received April 3, 1974:

"I have never been forced to say anything on any tape.

"Nor have I been brainwashed, drugged, tortured, hypnotized or in any way confused. As George Jackson wrote, 'It's me, the way I want it, the way I see it.'"

From an affidavit signed by Patricia Hearst and filed Tuesday in federal court:

"... She was in a constant case of fear and terror, and expected at any minute to be murdered by her captors."

Such contradictions between Patricia Hearst's statements while she was with her Symbionese Liberation Army captors and those the newspaper heiress made in her court affidavit are shaping up as bones of contention in a developing courtroom battle.

Was it fear for her life that drove Miss Hearst to make the famous taped communiques in which she called herself the revolutionary "Tania," her father a "corporate liar," repudiated her family and spurned her fiancé Stephen Weed?

At the time she said it was not.

Now, she says she was driven insane by her captors, the clear implication being that she was not responsible for the chain of events that followed her kidnapping on Feb. 4, 1974.

The affidavit was filed on Miss Hearst's appearance in court on federal bank robbery charges.

"She was given a gun and directed to stand about in the center of the bank counter," the affidavit said, referring to the robbery. "Meanwhile, one of her captors, armed with a gun which was kept pointing at her, kept an eye on her and had told her in advance that if she made one false move or did anything except announce her name, she would be killed immediately."

But in a taped communique received April 23, 1974, nine days after the bank robbery, Miss Hearst told the world:

"On April 1, my comrades and I expropriated $10,660.02 from the Sunset branch of the Hibernia bank ... I was positioned so that I could hold customers and bank personnel who were on the floor. My gun was loaded and at no time did any of my comrades intentionally point their guns at me ...

"As for the idea of being brainwashed, the idea is ridiculous to the point of being beyond belief."

Miss Hearst earlier had claimed that it was herself speaking in a taped communique of March 9, 1974, the first indication that Miss Hearst was identifying with her captors.

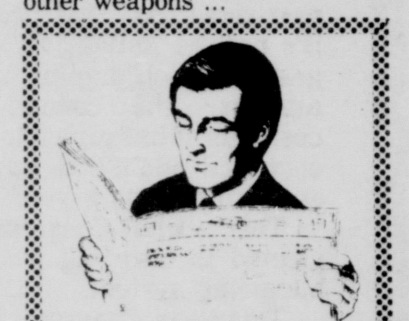

"I hope you believe me and not think that I've been brainwashed or forced into saying this," she said.

"Please listen to me because I'm speaking honestly and from the heart."

Yet, Miss Hearst's affidavit gives this picture of her first few weeks with the SLA:

"During the first week, nobody talked to her except the man who called himself Cinque, who brought a tape recording device into the closet and taped into this device the early communiques which were broadcast."

"She heard constant threats against her life and saw that all her captors were armed with revolvers, shotguns, and other weapons ..."

Think Ford may cut back on travel plans

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott said today he expects "some hiatus" in Ford's heavy travel schedule "before too long."

Scott said he talked informally with Ford today about the need for greater caution in public appearances in the wake of two incidents in 17 days in which women pulled guns on the chief executive.

The Pennsylvania senator said Ford told him: "I know what people are feeling and I'm anxious to be as careful as I can."

Scott, when pressed for the source of his statement that there would be a let-up in presidential travel soon, referred vaguely to items he had read in newspapers. However, White House reporters have expected Ford to travel at least as extensively in the next four weeks as in the past four. The President has said public officials must not hide from the public because of threats of incidents.

Scott said, however, that he expected less presidential travel in the immediate future.

As a result of the two assassination attempts, Congress is pushing its first investigation of the Secret Service and its performance in protecting presidents.

A Senate panel is planning to question the director of the Secret Service next week to determine if changes should be made in the agency's protection program.

House Republican Leader John Rhodes of Arizona who joined Scott and other GOP congressional leaders at a morning conference with Ford, was asked if he thought there should be an investigation of the Secret Service.

"I certainly do not," Rhodes said, expressing the belief that congressional committees may already have gone too far in looking into the activities of intelligence-gathering and law enforcement agencies.

Both Scott and Rhodes urged greater Secret Service efforts, however, to try and locate potential assassins before they can get within shooting distance of the President.

Scott also said he hoped Ford would accept any advice from the Secret Service that certain of his planned activities be curtailed. And he advised against detailed public announcements far in advance of presidential appearances.

The two GOP chiefs also joined in suggesting that the news media exercise restraint lest, in the words of Rhodes, they "make folk heroes of terrorists."

"Do cover stories in national news magazines incite to violence?" Scott asked, saying it was a legitimate point to consider at this time. The Pennsylvanian also suggested that publicity given to the body armour Ford has sometimes worn in recent weeks might only inspire potential assassins to "aim for the head."

Scott said the question of presidential travel and security did not arise at Ford's meeting with GOP leaders but that he took up the topic with the President privately and informally.

When a reporter said he detected a reluctance among politicians to say flatly they wish Ford would stay home more at this time, Scott agreed:

"We don't want to say it. It's human nature, part of the competitive urge (for Ford to want to travel)."

The White House also had no immediate comment.

Church's statement said, "We want to know why the mail of organizations such as the Ford Foundation, Harvard University and the Rockefeller Foundation and why mail to and from persons such as Arthur Burns, Bella Abzug, Jay Rockefeller, Martin Luther King, Mrs. Martin Luther King, Richard Nixon, Hubert Humphrey, Edward Kennedy..." should have been regularly opened and scrutinized by the CIA."

Later, Church said the names he read did not appear on any CIA watchlist, indicating, he said, that the operation "went far afield."

Church said his own letter that was seen in CIA files was written to his mother while he was traveling in the Soviet Union.

With the exception of Bella Abzug, none of the names mentioned by Church had previously been disclosed as objects of CIA mail surveillance.

New parking lot already cracking

The parking area and driveway around the new City Garage on Ill. 38 near the Dixon Airport has been completed less than six weeks, but it is already beginning to deteriorate.

The contract for the blacktop surface was awarded at the July 8 City Council meeting to Ladd Construction Co., for $17,800.

Inspection of the site shows cracks are already developing in the surface, left photo, and city officials fear that rain and cold weather will result in chunks of the blacktop surface coming out.

City Street Department trucks are currently engaged in hauling fill dirt to the site. In some areas of the lot, the wheels of the loaded trucks sink more than four inches into the blacktop surface, photo at right. The blacktop ripples noticeably as they drive on the surface.

Mayor William L. Naylor, commenting on the lot, says he will recommend to the council the bill for the project not be paid until the job is done to the satisfaction of city officials.

E. German leader Soviet stooge

By HENRY J. TAYLOR

WEST BERLIN — Erich Honecker, first Secretary of the East German Communist party, is a straight Soviet stooge. He met with President Ford in Helsinki, but the first time I saw him was in East Berlin's drab Werner Sellenbinder Hall.

East Germany's leader is a wiry man with kinky gray hair. He described to me the "1,001 things I intend to do to improve the East Germans' standard of living—which is hogwash. Their leaders' purpose is not to improve life for the people, but to claim that life for them must be better because the leaders are in power.

Honecker is truculent but vain, ambitious but susceptible—an operator—and of slender courage in the clinches. His high, whinnying laugh is as contrived as his career. He has a grimace which seems not so much a smile as a dental problem, cruel, suspicious eyes behind heavy rimmed spectacles and a stare like a gaping marine creature that has leapt up from the dirty deep.

You and I know there are some self-serving people who are the least likable when they are trying to be likable, and Honecker is one of them. You could not be with him 10 seconds without realizing that he is a hard character: zero Fahrenheit temperature.

Honecker was born in the industrial Saar. His parents were both Communist party members, but it is agreed here that Honecker's mother ruled the roost and, at 8, Honecker was distributing Communist party newspapers for his mother. At 10 he joined the local Communist youth organization. Honecker was on his way.

Throughout World War II Moscow harbored and trained many Western European Communists, safe and sound, while their brother-nationals fought the Nazis. These included German Communist Walter Ulbricht, Italian Communist Palmiro Togliatti, French Communist Maurice Thorez, etc. It was a motley crowd operating secure in Moscow like an octopus under a protective cleft, snapping up the Communist doctrine.

At the end of the war, Moscow sent them back to their countries, puffing on their pipes, aboard Soviet planes.

These were the only people who really had a post-war plan for western Europe. It was to make it Communist and the renegades went about this immediately.

For example, Togliatti landed in a Soviet plane at Bari, Italy. The first thing he did was carry large crates into the local hotel. These contained U.S.S.R. printing presses. Then Togliatti and his band ordered that all locks on the hotel's doors be changed.

Walter Ulbricht's assignment was to establish a Red regime in East Germany on the heels of the Red Army. This was the birth of East Germany.

Honecker was in jail. The Soviet troops liberated him when they took Berlin. He immediately made contact with the "Ulbricht Group."

In 1953 Honecker married a fiery

Red youth leader named Margot Feist, 26. Today she is East Germany's Minister of Education and they live in a guarded Communist party house in Walditz, northeast of East Berlin. Barbed wire protects the house, guards patrol it and floodlights glare over it all night.

Moscow brought both Honeckers there for two years. They were trained in espionage, sabotage and urban guerrilla warfare and given special courses at nearby Pushkino. Then the Soviet returned them to East Berlin and together they clawed their way upward in the Red party machinery under Ulbricht.

In 1958 Ulbricht made Honecker a full East German Politburo member, a promotion that Ulbricht would one day bitterly regret. Then both Honeckers gave themselves a hefty push when both manned the barricades that became the Berlin Wall in 1961.

The East German secret police apparatus is the dreaded Staats-suchereitdienst (SSD). Honecker contrived to become the head of it and his acumen for treachery was surpassed only by his capacity for brutality.

Honecker built his own inside cabal in the infighting that passes for cooperation in the Red states. As Ulbricht grew older and weaker, Honecker hit him mercilessly from the underside.

Ulbricht's world disintegrated like a china vase hit by a train. And on May 3, 1971, Honecker, then 58, succeeded Ulbricht, 77, after Ulbricht's reign of 25 years.

WASHINGTON (NEA)—Politics is nothing if not dreams, and the dream in the Democratic Party for years has had as its setting the 1976 nominating convention: It is late in the show, pretenses are falling like the leaves of autumn, and the George Wallace forces continue to deadlock good sense.

After five ballots the audience rebels at the prospect of choosing again between, groan, Henry Jackson and Hubert Humphrey. Suddenly, from the back of the hall, the chant begins: "Kennedy, Kennedy, Ken-nee-dee!" Order is called, but half-heartedly, and anyway it is too late. The chant becomes bedlam and the game is over; Edward M. Kennedy is the man.

The dream is most illogical. There has not been a deadlocked Democratic convention since 1924, and no genuine draft since the party's choice of James Garfield. Besides, Teddy Kennedy insists he'll not run nor be conscripted. Yet such is the dream's appeal that multiplying numbers of other Democratic presidential candidates are beginning to believe it has what Jimmy Carter's people call the stuff of self-fulfilling prophecy. If so, many grump, the party is doing everyone a disservice, probably including itself.

The ongoing Kennedy fascination has long perplexed those others who would be the Democrat's favorite. Early this year one unannounced candidate said privately, after a reporter's indiscretion: "Are we discussing Kennedy's qualifications or mine? It's bad enough reading about of questionable character.

Says an observer close to Fred Harris: "I personally think things like Chappaquiddick, booze and women add to Kennedy's mystique. But that's the grudging admiration in me. Out in mid-America, where they still do the two-step, there are hordes of voters who just aren't similarly inclined."

How much would Chappaquiddick matter? "At least three or four percentage points if Kennedy runs," says a rival, "and since we think the next election will probably be close, it could be that Chappaquiddick would mean the difference." At best, the candidate adds, Kennedy might squeak by a weak Jerry Ford only to take office under a cloud of public suspicion and resentment, in which case "The Democrats would get what they want but at a terrible price."

Part of that terrible price, perhaps, would be the signal to cast-away candidates that the lust for triumph has replaced the axiom of impartiality in the Democratic Party. That winning overrides other considerations. Even now, the backers of some 1976 hopefuls wonder whether the party would not dream about Wallace, rather than Kennedy, if the polls and the publicity indicated sufficient vote profit.

Charisma is not enough, say critics, there must be a democratic process as well. Or as a Gene McCarthy aide says it: "If the Democratic Party has come to the state where it believes it needs to push one man to save it, then maybe it's not worth saving."

his superiorities but I'll be damned if I'll talk about them too."

This frustration, though still largely private, has since assumed formal dimensions; Rep. Morris Udall, as example, now says gingerly that if the Democrats force a Kennedy candidacy they will be running a man for the presidency who breaks his word; backers of other candidates focus their condemnations on the idea that a party of 60 million people has only one man worth courting.

The resentments are natural enough. It's a bit off-putting, says Udall assistant Bob Neuman, "to work your rear for months and then find out in a California poll that Kennedy is still ahead of everybody by three times." What's more, there are the financial considerations; new laws which limit campaign contributions have minimized the effects of contributors who are holding their money until the Kennedy question is final, but as Carter aide Jody Powell says: "Even if we can get a Kennedy man to give us some money, we can't yet get his full support, we can't for instance get him to go out among his neighbors and raise the money he otherwise might."

Beyond the notions of finances and fairness, though, is that of logic. Not entirely defensively, supporters of other candidates say their campaign travels have convinced them that though Kennedy might win a convention he could not at this time win an election. A Watergate-soured public, it's explained, is in no mood for risking another president

By RAY CROMLEY

WASHINGTON (NEA)—For all his economic sins and slavish worship of computer readouts, one concept Robert Strange McNamara brought to Washington and the Pentagon should be adopted as gospel by every president, senator and representative.

McNamara, it will be recalled, established the five-year, look-ahead system in the Department of Defense. That is, each major project was calculated ahead by five years to determine what pressure it would exert on the budget. As McNamara knew, and as every president and congressman should have learned by now, it's not the initial cost of a program—which may be in the low millions—that counts, but the cost after it has grown to adolescence and adulthood, which may run into billions a year.

This is what Congress has neglected in carrying out its new budgeting system.

This year Congress faithfully promised fiscal restraint and responsibility, and set up some impressive rules to prove sincerity. Nevertheless, in voting on money bills thus far this session, congressmen collectively have failed in practice to give any apparent appreciable thought to the cost of their programs five and ten years hence.

Thus the much heralded con-

Foresight rare in government plans gressional monetary reform, which was to save us all money, may prove, in the end, to be considerably less than half a loaf.

The importance of looking ahead becomes clear when it is realized that more than half the average federal budget today consists of commitments inherited from previous budgets.

Each year the dollar value of these old commitments inevitably rises, pushing the budget up beyond reason.

Now this is not because no one thought of the problem. The budgeting reform voted by Congress, in fact, requires the President to make five-year projections for all budget items—in the McNamara tradition.

Mr. Ford's men have made these predictions, which may or may not be correct, accuracy in economic guessing being what it is today.

Nevertheless, for what they're worth, the projections indicate that old programs, many of which presumably should have reached their full growth by now, will expand from $268.4 billion in fiscal 1974 to a predicted $462 billion by 1980.

The White House budget specialists predict further that the $400 million in programs the Ford administration proposed to Congress in January this year would grow to $14.7 billion in 15 years.

That is, by 1980 they would be almost 37 times as large.

In the 10 years between fiscal 1966 and 1976, health programs expanded by a factor of 10, from $2.6 billion to $28 billion; veterans benefits from $5.9 billion to $15.6 billion; federal employee retirement and disability from $1.7 billion to $7.9 billion; public assistance from $3.4 billion to $18.4 billion; and interest on the public debt from $12 billion to $36 billion.

This is not to argue that all these increases are bad. It is, however, to say that in too many cases, little of this future growth was taken into account when the original projects were voted. This failure, more and more, is boxing in the budget makers. They are being handcuffed by the lack of foresight or "forethinking" done when "small" but "worthy" programs were originally voted.

Once instituted, it is almost impossible to cancel or significantly reduce programs, even when they've grown out of all reason, or when their usefulness has ended, as almost any recent president could testify with strong feeling. Mr. Ford has had remarkably little success with his modest proposals along this line. Mr. Nixon failed completely. Few other presidents have dared try.

We cannot afford much more of such nonsense.

Ghost story

By DON OAKLEY

The most encouraging thing about the attempt on President Ford's life in Sacramento, aside from the fact that it was unsuccessful, is that no one has yet come forward with the theory that it was the fruit of some vast and intricate conspiracy or the charge that the authorities are suppressing evidence and that the American people have not been told the full story.

Lynne Fromme might conceivably have been the instrument of the jailed Charles Manson, carrying out, robotlike, his command to kill or threaten the President. Apparently she was not. But even if she were, that is as far as the lovers of conspiracies seem likely to take this bizarre incident.

Unfortunately, the same cannot be said of the assassination of John F. Kennedy. That tragic event simply will not stay put in history—not necessarily because a great many Americans believe the truth has been withheld from them but because it somehow goes against the grain to believe that something so profoundly shocking and history-changing could have been the work of one man. We cannot accept that the universe can be that irrational.

Thus 12 years after the vibrant young president was struck down in Dallas, and 11 years after the most prestigious board of inquiry ever assembled delivered its voluminous documented verdict, a slew of books disputing the Warren Commission's findings continue to sell, and no doubt still more are yet to be written. Conspiracist lecturers continue to draw crowds on college campuses and any late-night television show that has not recently replayed the assassination and rehearsed all the questions that still surround it is an exception.

Now Sen. Richard Schweiker, R-Pa., who says that until a few months ago he was one who accepted the Warren Commission's conclusion that Lee Harvey Oswald acted alone, is seeking to have the Senate Select Committee on Intelligence conduct its own examination of the Kennedy assassination.

According to Schweiker, there are now indications that both the CIA and FBI covered up evidence that could have affected the findings of the Warren Commission—evidence, for example, that Jack Ruby, Oswald's slayer, was an FBI informer, and that a threatening letter from Oswald to the FBI was destroyed by the FBI after the president's assassination.

"All these new developments have caused me to question some of the commission assumptions," says Schweiker. "To me it's like a big, public boil that's going to burst."

If any useful purpose can be served by staging yet another investigation into the Kennedy assassination, then by all means it should be undertaken. To many, however, this new evidence is no more persuasive than all the old evidence which seems to call into question the official verdict.

Like the shadowy specters on the grassy knoll in Dallas, like Oswald's reputed Cuban and CIA or FBI connections, like the bullet that struck both the President and John Connally and remained mysteriously whole—the list can be extended almost indefinitely—these new developments are simply more tantalizing pieces added to a great puzzle we seem fated never to be able to assemble into one coherent, self-consistent picture everyone can look at and say, "Yes, that's what happened and that's everything that happened."

And even if another inquiry were to leave the Warren Commission report undisturbed as the best explanation of this tragedy we can ever hope to have, that would not be the end of it. The boil will continue to fester. A new generation of questioners will carry the Kennedy assassination into the next century, even as the assassination of Abraham Lincoln still has elements of mystery modern researchers seek to mine.

Again, this is not to say that an investigation by the Senate should not be made. It is just that, if we harbor the idea that somewhere there exists a missing piece to the puzzle that is suddenly going to make the whole thing hang together and make sense, we are probably priming ourselves for disappointment and even greater frustration over one of the most frustrating occurrences in American history.

Concentrated effort effective Virgin timber spared from ax

CENTRALIA, Ill. (AP) — Illinois' last significant stand of unprotected virgin timber is virtually assured a permanent lease on life thanks to the efforts of the state, a preservation group and a pulp and paper company.

Little Black Slough, a 2,515-acre wilderness of 300-year-old swamp cypress and and wild-life near Vienna in Johnson County, is slated to join the Illinois Nature Preserve System by year's end, status that should secure it from civilization forever.

"The state will be acquiring the largest natural area remaining in a virgin state in Illinois that it doesn't already own," said Neil Gaston, director of The Nature Conservancy's state chapter. "It has never been touched by man. It is a primeval kind of place, which for Illinois is very special."

The Conservancy, a national nonprofit preservationist group supported by public subscription, has been working for three years to assure that the slough stays that way.

The tract of 22-foot diameter trees was sold by a Southern Illinois lumber firm to the West Virginia Pulp & Paper Co. (Wesvaco) in 1972, causing concern for tract's future. Cypress is very valuable.

The Conservancy, which has helped preserve some 750,000 acres in 47 states and the Caribbean, began negotiating with Wesvaco and its president, David L. Luke III.

"It was because of their forbearance," Gaston said. "They didn't cut the timber. They held it for three years. They ultimately agreed to assist us by selling it to us."

"The Little Black Slough is being purchased from Wesvaco by The Nature Conservancy for $1,250,000. The property is valued at over $1.7 million. They sold it to us in June at less than fair market value. The company is making a chair-table donation of the difference."

"The property will be sold in turn to the state," Gaston said, and the state will pay about $900,000 for it to the Nature Conservancy.

The Conservancy must raise about $400,000 to pay off loans it obtained for the purchase. The state will get the money it needs from the U.S. Bureau of Outdoor Recreation. The Conservancy has about a tenth of what it needs in cash and about half promised in pledges.

Anthony Dean, Department of Conservation and Wildlife director, calls it "One of the most significant conservation projects in the state's history."

Safe in the slough—where the last Illinois bobcat sighting was reported in 1970—are the Swainson Warbler, four species of heron, the common egret, the pileated woodpecker, the bird-voiced tree frog, the rare Indiana bat, the mole salamander, the bantam sunfish, deer, beaver, otter, 100 species of woody vegetation and three of the state's four poisonous reptiles. Next door is another refuge, the 1,100-acre Heron Pond Nature Preserve.

"The land will be protected from any change in its current status," Gaston said.

Royal lovers to be visited in daytime television experiment

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Daytime TV is naught but fast-paced game shows and plodding soap operas, right? Well, on Thursday, NBC is trying what Monty Python might call something completely different.

It is pre-empting two soap operas for a costly, 90-minute exercise ambiguously entitled, "Barbara Walters Visits the Royal Lovers." The lovers turn out to be married, with no hint of scandal about them.

Only two royal couples are dealt with, one in France, the other in Denmark, although lesser aristocrats appear as supporting players.

The show, described as an experiment in daytime TV by producer Lucy Jarvis, is a well-photographed combination of the this-is-me-at-the-palace and the it's-simply-divine schools of journalism.

It isn't meant to be weighty, as one might suspect from Miss Walters' inquiries. They range from asking the pretender to the throne of France if married Frenchmen keep mistresses to this corks to the Queen of Denmark: "Is it hard to be a queen?"

Billed as a look at "the glamorous world of European royalty," it's also a look at how Miss Walters hobknobs in that world, apparently to inspire vicarious thrills for the housewife in Peoria.

In the first segment on French would-be royalty and all that, Miss Walters takes us to a joint called Maxim's in Paris to watch her rub elbows with her aristocratic hosts and bump into Pierre Salinger, former press secretary to the late President Kennedy.

After she notes that he has strong opinions about modern royalty, she is seen traveling with Salinger in a car.

She explains in narration that "the next morning I had an appointment at Versailles and Pierre gave me a lift." En route, he reveals that while aristocrats regard themselves as important, the average Frenchman gives not hoot one about their lives.

That should have been ample warning. But she presses on to Versailles, gazes a bit, chats a bit, then goes to a horse race and is told by a giggling Indian prince he needs a rich wife.

Then comes an aristocratic dinner, followed by a quick trip to fashion designer Yves St. Laurent, who says he is designing below the knee this year and whips up a quick evening dress for her.

And on it goes, with Miss Walters mightily impressed at times, pretentious at other moments and occasionally attempting to inject a little humor to show that she's just plain folks.

The only segment that really is interesting is her visit with the young Queen of Denmark, a very warm, natural and unassuming lady.

The Doctor Says:

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.
DEAR DR. LAMB — I'm 21-year-old and like the average American male, girls are my main interest. However, I shy away from them because I have scars.

When I was seven I was severely burned with a large pan of hot tea. Fortunately my face wasn't touched, however, my neck down to my breast was. Now I bear scars that I am totally ashamed of.

I did go to a children's hospital and they grafted skin on my chest, but it didn't succeed. They did cut one scar off my neck that worked beautifully.

I had two girlfriends I really liked. I was in love with one of them. She got tired of having a boyfriend who wouldn't let his shirt be unbuttoned and left.

Most people tell me to accept it and live with it, but I can't. My parents have always told me I couldn't afford it, so I might as well accept my scars, instead of hoping a plastic surgeon could help.

Could a plastic surgeon do the job so you couldn't notice it? Would it be less expensive because my scars don't obstruct my arm movements? How can I find a plastic surgeon? I would travel anywhere to get the job done. Would it be better to have a plastic surgery or just cut off some?

DEAR READER — Your letter certainly suggests that if you don't resolve your problem it will have a serious impact on your whole life. You should see a plastic surgeon to at least evaluate your problem and see what can be done about it. Ask for a recommendation from the county medical society of any large city or your family doctor could refer you to one. There should be several in the town you mentioned or at the nearest university medical center. You probably have over reacted to your problem. It may not be so important as you think, even in romance. After all, scars on the upper chest are not likely to destroy a romance that is worth having anyway. Your reactions to the scars are the problem, not your girlfriend's reaction to them.

Your doctor will need to consider the possibility that the scars are an excuse for you to avoid an intimate relationship. I know you won't accept this idea, but the mind has strange ways of playing tricks on us. A good example here is the obese girl who is really obese because it keeps her from having to face the problems of romance.

One way to solve the dilemma would be to correct or minimize your cosmetic problem. That might give you the confidence you need. I have never agreed with the idea that a person should have psychotherapy just to accept a physical defect if indeed the defect could be corrected, and that is the primary problem.

Surgery of any type is expensive and seems to be a greater problem all the time. The doctor can give you some advice on this, and perhaps there will be some way you could solve that problem. He can tell you how much success you might have with an operation. That will depend a lot on how extensive and deep the scars are, but I can tell you that surgery can do some remarkable things to minimize or correct such problems. (Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

United in marriage

Fane-Ebert vows

ASHTON — Miss Sandy Fane became the wife of Randy Ebert at a candlelight ceremony in St. John's Lutheran Church Aug. 29. Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Shaulis, Ashton, and Mr. and Mrs. Martin Ebert, also of Ashton.

The Rev. Hermann Schmitt, pastor at the church, conducted the nuptial while Mrs. Lyle Warner, Ashton, accompanied the vocalist, Miss Teresa Lawson, Ashton, on the organ.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in a gown of sheer dotted Swiss styled with a stand-up collar trimmed with a band of Nottingham lace. Matching lace and a Venice applique motif trimmed the empire bodice and cuffs of her full bishop sleeves. A deep ruffle accented with a band of lace trimmed the A-line skirt which extended into a chapel-length train. A cathedral-length mantilla was secured by a Camelot cap trimmed with lace. The bridal bouquet combined white daisies, yellow roses, stephanotis and baby's breath.

Miss Debbie Fane, Ashton, was her sister's maid of honor. She wore a yellow and green print halter gown of double knit with a wide ruffle neckline. She carried a sheer white parasol decorated with yellow daisy pompons.

Bridesmaids were Mrs. Lore Koma, N.Y., Mrs. Wanda Haub, Ashton, and Mrs. Aneda Ebert, also of Ashton and sister-in-law of the groom. Their outfits were identical to the maid of honor's.

Larry Ebert, Ashton, served as his brother's best man. John Kennay, Steve Meiners, both of Ashton, and Tom White, Dixon, were groomsmen. The guests were seated by Rick Fane, brother of the bride, Gary Morris, Amboy, and Dave Patterson, Polo.

Miss Kelly Jones, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Jones, Ashton, participated as flower girl. She wore a short sleeved floor-length gown of yellow and green print in a double knit with a white Batiste apron.

Master Mark Shaulis, brother of the bride, was the ringbearer.

A reception followed the ceremony at the Dixon Elks Club with Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Vaile, Brookfield, acting as hosts. Assisting as servers were Miss Bev Gilbert, Miss Debbie Krug, Mrs. Jim Jones and Mrs. Jim Messer, all Ashton residents. Mrs. Rocky Penafior, Sterling, and Mrs. Jerry Klus, Prophetstown, presided at the gift table while Miss Patti Vaile, Brookfield, was in charge of the guest book.

Since their honeymoon to Lake of the Ozarks, Mo., the newlyweds have been residing in Oregon.

The new Mrs. Ebert is a 1972 graduate of Ashton High

MR. AND MRS. RANDY EBERT

School and a '74 graduate of Sauk Valley College's practical nursing program.

Mr. Ebert is a '73 graduate of Ashton High School and is presently engaged in farming.

Fulfs-Rich vows

St. Paul's Lutheran Church was the setting for the wedding that united Miss Cynthia Lea Fulfs, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Fulfs, Dixon, and Donald Rich, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Rich, Prospect Heights, Aug. 16.

The Rev. William Swarbrick of St. Paul's Lutheran Church and the Rev. David Kagan of St. Patrick's Catholic Church officiated in the double-ring ceremony while Wilson Ortgiesen provided nuptial music.

Escorted to the altar by her father, the bride was attired in a full-length gown of white Quiana jersey, accented by a lace patchwork skirt and train. Her picture hat was made of patchwork similar to her skirt. She carried a bouquet of white Phalaenopsis orchids, stephanotis, and ivy.

Serving as her sister's matron of honor was Mrs. Nancy Love, Macomb. She wore a full-length nylon ivory floral-print sundress with a ruffled hem.

Bridesmaids were Mrs. Trudy Hubbell, Christopher, and Miss Pat Palmer, Manteno, who wore gowns identical to the matron of honor's in shades of pink and blue. Each of the attendants carried bouquets of stephanotis, baby's breath, and ivy.

The groomsmen were Thomas Rich, brother of the groom from Prospect Heights, and William Dojtrek, Chicago. Ushers were Thomas Bartels and David Donahue, both of Chicago.

A reception honoring the couple was held at the Nachusa Post House. Mrs. Sterling Carter, Sterling, and Mrs. Vera Johnson, Polo, aunts of the bride, poured at the buffet table. Miss Rose Dovenspike, Kankakee, registered guests. The five-tiered wedding cake was cut and served by Mrs. Eileen Shultis, sister of the groom from Mt. Prospect, and Miss Paula Shuck, cousin of the bride from Berwyn. Miss Linda Beauseigneur and Miss Kathy Wentling, Dixon, presided at the gift table.

The newlyweds honeymooned in Door County, Wisconsin. Mr. and Mrs. Rich are both graduates of Western Illinois University and he is presently continuing his law studies in Los Angeles, California, where they will reside.

An afternoon garden party was given in honor of Miss Fulfs by Mrs. Daniel Fritz, Elmhurst, and Mrs. Sterling Carter, Sterling.

The rehearsal dinner, given by the bridegroom's parents, was held at the Nachusa Trail Room.

It is time to get your flu shot if you want it to be effective when this virus is quite active. Immunization against influenza (flu) has been available for several years but is not recommended for everybody. However, for some adults, getting a flu shot can be an important way to avoid serious illness.

Currently used influenza vaccinations are reported to be only 60 to 70 per cent effective. But they do provide some degree of protection to people with special health problems whose health would be endangered by an attack of flu.

In general, physicians consider the following individuals as candidates for flu vaccination: people with chronic heart and circulatory problems; those with chronic lung conditions such as bronchitis, asthma and emphysema; individuals with diabetes or other chronic metabolic disorders; people with chronic bladder and kidney problems; and those over age 65 years.

If you find yourself in one of these risk categories, discuss the advisability of flu vaccination with your doctor.

Children Still Face Risk
In 1973, approximately 5.8 million of the nearly 14 million children aged one to four years were unprotected against either polio, measles, rubella, diphtheria, whooping cough or tetanus. Nearly 10 million in the same age group had not been immunized against mumps.

A slight national upward trend in immunization among pre-school children was reported in 1974, after several years of declining immunization rates.

However, the Center for Disease Control in Atlanta reports that immunity levels among one to four year olds are still low enough to sustain substantial spread — even local epidemics — of preventable diseases.

Adult Memories Too Short
The German measles (rubella) epidemic of 1963-64 resulted in 30,000 miscarriages, serious disabilities in about 20,000 babies and an estimated cost of $1.5 billion.

Apparently many parents have forgotten this horrible toll, for in 1974, 40 per cent of the pre-schoolers in the country, were not immunized against rubella.

Father wants to put hyperactive daughter up for adoption

Dear Ann Landers: I'm 35 years old and just gave birth to my second child, a boy. My husband was so crazy to have a son he couldn't see straight.

Our little girl is now four. She is hyperactive and very difficult. She pinches, hits and bites people. This has been going on for two years and I can't seem to stop her.

Now my husband wants to put the girl up for adoption because he's afraid the boy might pick up her bad habits. We've had some battles over this because I don't think it's the right thing to do.

Will you please try to get through to the nut? I've never heard of a father wanting to do such a thing. — Mother Of Prince Philip II

Dear Mother: Tell your lunatic husband that children aren't waffles. You don't throw the first one out just because it doesn't turn out the way you'd like it to.

Your daughter needs special attention. Some hyperactive children have emotional problems that can be resolved by tutoring. Others have a chemical imbalance that can be regulated by medication. Take her to the nearest university hospital for evaluation. Too many so-called hyperkinetic kids are turned into little junkies because it's easier to medicate them than spend the time required to make them feel loved.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a widow 60 years of age, have been respectable all my life and live alone in a small apartment. I own a medium-sized black-and-white TV which gets all the channels.

A new neighbor has been very pleasant to me. I like his personality. He has invited me to his home so we can watch his color TV which he says is the finest.

Should I go? I don't want him to think I'm a loose woman. — Need Your Guidance

Dear Need: My, how times have changed! It used to be, "Come over and see my etchings."

Invite the gentleman to your apartment for some homemade apple pie. The two of you can watch the same shows on your black-and-white set.

Dear Ann Landers: My 12-year-old niece comes from a well-to-do family. Ella has everything money can buy and her parents are very generous with her. She is a studious young person and has always made fine grades. So far as I know Ella has never been in any trouble.

This child enjoys coming to my home to visit and I like having her. But within the last four months I have proof that she has stolen at least $50 from my purse. The losses occurred at three different times. The first was a $20 bill. The second was two $10 bills and just yesterday she took $10, perhaps $15.

Do I have the right to try to deal with her without telling her parents? Can Ella be stealing in order to save money to buy expensive gifts for people she wishes to impress? Please help me do right by this child. I am — Terribly Distrubed

Dear T.D.: A 12-year-old who steals is trying to compensate for things she feels she is being cheated of — usually love. Recent studies have shown that more rich kids steal than the so-called "disadvantaged."

Tell Ella you know what she has done. Leave her parents out of it. Be sympathetic. Suggest that she ask her parents to get her into therapy. No need to tell them about the stealing. She could just say she is depressed and wants to talk to someone about her feelings of inadequacy. You'd be doing the child a tremendous favor by handling the problem in this manner. Good luck.

There is no absolute rule about the correct play at many notrump contracts.

Once dummy's jack of hearts holds the first trick, South sees that if the diamond finesse is on everything will be fine. If it loses and East holds the ace of spades, he is likely to be down two tricks.

One declarer in an important team match decided to run the five club tricks right away on the theory that East and West might discard badly. They didn't! East signalled in spades and West never let a heart go. Then, when West got in with the king of diamonds he led a spade. East took his ace and returned a heart and set declarer two tricks.

The other South decided to start with the diamond finesse. West was in and led his seven of spades. The four was played from dummy. East thought a while and played the jack, whereupon South made his contract with an overtrick.

West blamed East for the debacle, but we rather blame West. If he had led the 10 of spades, East would have had no excuse, but that seven-spot lead could have been third best from king-10-7.

New poisoning deaths suspected

MARION, Ill. (AP) — New cases of suspected poisoning of patients in the emergency room of Marion Memorial Hospital were disclosed today by a prosecutor. The deaths of two persons in the hospital were described last week as possible homicides.

State's Atty. Robert Howerton of Williamson County said one of the new cases, that of Michael Simmons, 15, of rural Marion, was almost certainly a case of poisoning. Simmons was treated Oct. 3, 1974, and went into respiratory arrest, but survived and later recovered.

"There are a total of six people who survived," Howerton said. "One (Simmons) is a strong case (of suspected poisoning) and the others are remote."

Harmon youth faces charge

According to reports, both vehicles were northbound when Swanson attempted to change from the inside to the outside lane of Galena Ave.

Swanson was charged with improper lane usage.

Loomis outlines Post Office parking situation

In reply to a query from Rep. John B. Anderson, R-Rockford, regarding parking available near the Dixon Post Office prompted by a letter sent to him by Daniel Shairas, a copy of which was published in the Telegraph on Sept. 17, Postmaster Francis Loomis outlines the parking spaces for post office patrons.

He notes four 10-minute spaces are provided in front of the post office; that between the hours of 9:30 a.m. and 3 p.m., 13 offstreet parking spaces are available in the parking lot behind the post office; that six spaces are provided for loading and unloading mail at the rear of the building at the dock area.

Loomis also informed the congressman there are two metered parking spaces on Highland Avenue, adjacent to the post office.

The postmaster reported to Anderson, the city has designated 74 feet along Highland Avenue adjacent to the building as a no parking zone, and permits no parking for 49 feet along Second Street in front of the post office.

Loomis complains, in the letter, "Unfortunately some postal customers prefer the 'no parking' area immediately in front of the door."

Fireworks arrest

MT. MORRIS — Mt. Morris police officials arrested a juvenile Tuesday for possession of fireworks. The youth was turned over to juvenile authorities and later released to the custody of his parents.

Arson suspected in fires

COMPTON — Arson is suspected in two separate fires which occurred Tuesday night on the Main Street in Compton. Members of the Compton Volunteer Fire Department were called to the old store building, now being used as a warehouse for Fasco Mills Feed and Grain Elevator about 8:20 p.m. When firemen arrived, smoke was pouring from a second floor window on the east side and flames were shooting from a ground floor west side window. The fire was extinguished quickly and officials believe something was thrown through one of the windows to ignite the fire. Damage was reported to some feed, stored in the building.

While the fire department was extinguishing the fire at the warehouse, members of the Community Club extinguished a second fire behind the Sportsmen's Hall where the club was holding a steak fry and meeting. Flames were shooting up the back wall of the building when this fire was discovered. No damage was reported.

The fires are being investigated.

UF Cabinet meeting

The United Fund Cabinet had its third meeting of the young campaign on Monday.

Campaign Chairman Richard Langenfeld commended those members of the Cabinet who participated in the successful kickoff dinner-dance.

Following Langenfeld's opening remarks, the Cabinet members gave progress reports on their particular departments. The drive to date is progressing well.

Langenfeld asked the cabinet members to provide him with the names of clubs, associations, and businesses who would be interested in having speakers address their groups about the Dixon United Fund and the agencies it services.

Ohio tennis court dedication Friday

OHIO — The ceremonies for the opening of the new tennis courts at Ohio will be Friday at 2 p.m., according to the mayor and members of the Village Board.

During Monday night's Ohio Village Board meeting, Mayor Charles Anderson signed a proclamation proclaiming Saturday as Ohio Hunting and Fishing Day, and that this day be an annual observance, the fourth Saturday of each September. Anderson urged all citizens to join with sportsmen-conservationists in a rededication to the wise use of our natural resources and their proper management for the benefit of future generations. Further, he urged all citizens to take part in hunting and fishing day activities on Saturday to learn more about conservation and outdoor skills.

The board voted to accept steps two and three of the supplemental state grant offer for the Ohio sewage treatment plant and sewer system project from the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency, a division of water pollution control under the Antipollution Bond Act of 1970. It was also passed to buy lights for the new tennis courts at the park.

Ohio's motor fuel tax allotment for August was $427.21, the municipal retailer's use and service occupation tax for June was $757.24, and for July $716.44.

Three-quarter milk containers legal now

Gov. Dan Walker, today, signed a bill which will allow three-quarter paper-board milk containers. The bill amends the present Illinois weights and measures act and makes Illinois the 28th state to have the three-qt. containers.

Muller-Pinehurst Dairy, based in Rockford with a distribution point in Dixon, is the first Illinois supplier to introduce the 3-qt. container. Hugh Powell, president of the dairy, said the new package is significant because it has many consumer benefits and ecological values. He added the new paper-board container broadens the choice in milk packages.

The 3-qt. paper-board milk container is designed for consumers who want a larger economy milk container but don't like to handle the one gallon (9 lb. weight). Studies show the new container weighs 25 per cent less than the gallon. The shape makes it easier to handle and fits into most refrigerator doorstorage areas. The reduced cost means consumer savings.

FOCUS

A Place of Its Own

The Federal Bureau of Investigation has finally moved into its new headquarters across the street from its former home in the Justice Department building. The block-long, 11-story headquarters is said to be the most expensive office building ever constructed by the federal government. When it was first planned 13 years ago, its estimated cost was $60 million. Inflation and design changes more than doubled its price to $126 million. The new FBI building is named after the agency's former director, J. Edgar Hoover. It will house more than 161 million sets of fingerprints, millions of investigative files, and more than 7,500 employees.

DO YOU KNOW — Who is the present director of the FBI?

Prison baseball scouting called success

By SKIP WOLLENBERG
Associated Press Writer
SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Pittsburgh Pirates scout Branch Rickey says he hopes to arrange baseball tryouts for prisoners in a few other states, even though his trip through four Illinois institutions a few weeks ago failed to produce any outstanding prospects.

"We would have loved to have found five prospects there that nobody else knew about," said the 29-year-old grandson of the late baseball chief by the same name in a telephone interview from Pittsburgh.

"We didn't find them, but I don't think we wasted our time," he said.

Rickey and Gene Baker, a former second baseman for the Pirates and for the Chicago Cubs, saw some 150 prisoners in tryouts at St. Charles Youth Center and Pontiac, Menard and Stateville prisons during the first week of September.

"The benefits of tryouts sometimes come back to you in the most oblique ways. A player may have a younger brother or bring a friend (of major league caliber) to the next tryout. Or they may get out and become recreation directors and develop player from what they have learned from us," Rickey said.

"But it's an experimental program, and I have contacted officials in some other states where we are trying to find out if more tryout camps can be arranged," he said. He refused to disclose which states have been contacted.

Harding Peterson, the chief of scouting for the Pirates, said he also felt the tryouts showed prisoners that the Pirates care about them and are interested in their rehabilitation.

He said if the response from other states is good, the Pirates may hold tryouts in some "warm-weather states" later this fall.

Said Rickey of the Illinois tryouts: "Some of the prisoners say now they can joke with

The average running time for the 60-yard dash by a major league player is 7.0 seconds, the players were told.

"We can eliminate 95 of 100 prospects just by watching them run," Rickey said. He said some 85 will be too slow, and the other 10 may look awkward or struggle to cover the distance in 7.0 or less.

The reason the 60-yard dash times are so important, Rickey said, is too slow a prospect needs an exceptional throwing arm or power hitting ability to compensate for that deficiency. He said a player's batting style can be changed if he doesn't hit well, but the way he runs cannot be altered.

Rickey said it's unlikely Pittsburgh will return to Illinois for open tryouts in prison. "We have educated the recreational personnel here to some of the qualities we are looking for in a baseball player. We'll look forward to coming back to Illinois to see particular athletes, but I'm not sure we'd come back on an open-tryout basis," he said.

Rickey said two Menard prisoners may get followup letters from the Pirates.

"We told them we don't consider them prospects now, but if they get out and play baseball and improve themselves, we'd like to see them again," he said.

Rickey said Illinois was chosen as the first system for the prison tryouts because officials of the Corrections Department here were "so enthusiastic." He said he feels there may be greater possibilities of discovering players where ongoing baseball programs are underway, and Menard and Pontiac had only softball programs, he said.

their buddies, saying 'I tried out for the Pittsburgh Pirates'."

One of the lessons Rickey hopes the prisoners learned is that the scouts value running speed above almost anything else.

Sewage rate hike approved by Rochelle Council after debate

ROCHELLE — Acceptance of a bid for a second ambulance, advertising for fire protection insurance on all city-owned buildings, and bids for three new squad cars, were the only three items quickly dispensed with at Monday's Rochelle City Council meeting.

The ordinance introduced at the Sept. 9 meeting regarding a 20 per cent increase in sewage rates was introduced by Commissioner L. R. Dickinson, Utility Department Commissioner, a lengthy discussion ensued, at times with tempers flaring. The rate increase was approved on a 3-2 vote.

Dickinson told council members that in order to meet the standards set forth by the EPA, it was necessary to ask for the increase to meet fixed and growing costs in the department. Labor costs he stated, are up 26 per cent with chemicals used, showing an increase of 18 per cent in costs.

Laird Willson, a member of the Utility Advisory Board, said Rochelle had 16 employees, but the suggested number was 18. Labor costs have increased 26 per cent and chemical costs 18 per cent. He said the department was running in the red. The 20 per cent rate hike would make about $1 increase monthly for the average home owner. Industrial users would pay $25,000 to $49,000 per year more, he added.

A representative of John Nuveen Co., financial advisors for the city, spoke up. Paul Daniels commented: "No one wants a raise, but this is a time of inflation, there is need for a decision. The sewage treatment plant now operated in Rochelle is a more sophisticated operation than several years ago. The 20 per cent raise may not be enough in the long run—and is dependent on usage—it is, however, better than nothing, costing the average homeowner a monthly increase from $4.50 to $5.50, or approximately three cents a day.

Mayor Bill Cipolla replied: "I am not trying to dispute your figures, you're the expert. A year ago I opposed the same thing, a 10 per cent sewage and water rate increase. I indicated they'd be back this year. If it's 20 per cent across the board this year, will next year be the same?"

Daniels answered, "If inflation continues, not only Rochelle will have increased rates, but other communities as well."

"I'm suggesting council turn down this increase," Cipolla retorted. "Rochelle rates are among highest for utilities. I have a business that requires a lot of water and I have to look at this from two points, as a citizen and as mayor."

Willson asked for guide lines and Cipolla shot back, "If you can't come up with solutions, then we do not need an Utility Advisory Board."

Commissioner James J. McCaslin said utilities are a monopoly, with captive customers. "I challenge the Utility Board that 20 per cent across the board is not the only answer." The "$10,000 for City Engineer salary can be cut out of the sewage fund and put in general fund. We can keep hiring down, when a worker quits, do not replace him. We can readjust a fair rate schedule, and add a chlorination tax of $2 a year."

Cipolla said the department knows there are cuts to be made and thought more time was needed. He said it would save taxpayers at least a one year increase, if the department could reevaluate.

Commissioner Clarence said he (Rasmussen) "received calls from citizens asking to hold down costs, however, I'm depending on department heads. They are being paid for advice. We keep getting higher costs in business and I assume the utilities department has increases also." He voted, joining Dickinson in voting yes.

Commissioner Page Weeks said, "If they absolutely need it, we should pass it." He voted yes.

Allen in hospital with encephalitis

Blaine Allen, rural Asnton, a member of the Lee County Board from District 2, is reported in serious condition with encephalitis in Itasca Memorial Hospital, Grand Rapids, Minn.

Hospital officials say Allen's condition, although it remains serious, is improving. He is in a comatose state, but tests which were recently repeated show signs of improvement. Officials say they are just waiting and watching his condition and believe he will gradually come out of the coma.

Allen was admitted to the hospital while vacationing in Minnesota, but a family spokesman believes he contracted the disease over the Labor Day weekend in Illinois.

Allen, a former chairman of the Lee County Board, is chairman of the Road and Bridge Committee for the board. A farmer, he also serves as Reynolds Township supervisor.

Oldsmobile 1976. An Olds for everybody. And good mileage in every size.

Take a look at the beautiful new 1976 Oldsmobiles in your dealer showroom. They're impressive.

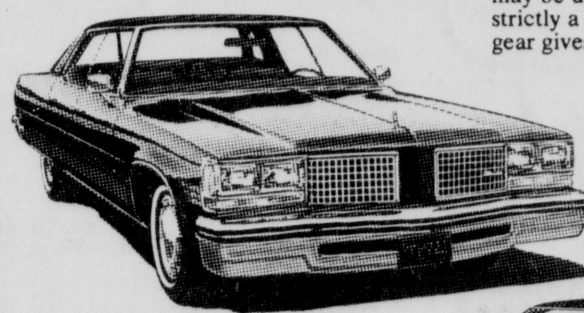

Then take a look at the 1976 EPA Mileage Guide test figures for Oldsmobile. They're impressive, too.

They show that good gas mileage runs in our family. Remember these mileage figures are estimates. Naturally the actual mileage you get will vary depending on the type of driving you do, your driving habits, your car's condition, and available equipment.

From sporty Starfire supercoupes to full-size, front-wheel drive Toronados, there's good gas mileage in every size Olds.

That's quite a feat considering the array of sizes and models that Olds is offering this year. With this kind of selection, there's bound to be an Olds to fit your lifestyle and pocketbook. And every Olds, whether small, mid-size or full-size is built to be right for the times.

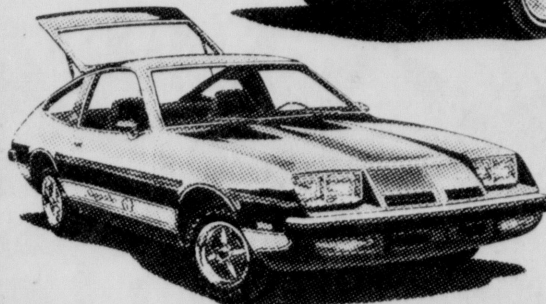

This year Oldsmobile is offering an available five-speed overdrive transmission on Starfire, Omega and Cutlass models. (You may be used to thinking of five-speed as strictly a performance feature, but the fifth gear gives you overdrive efficiency.)

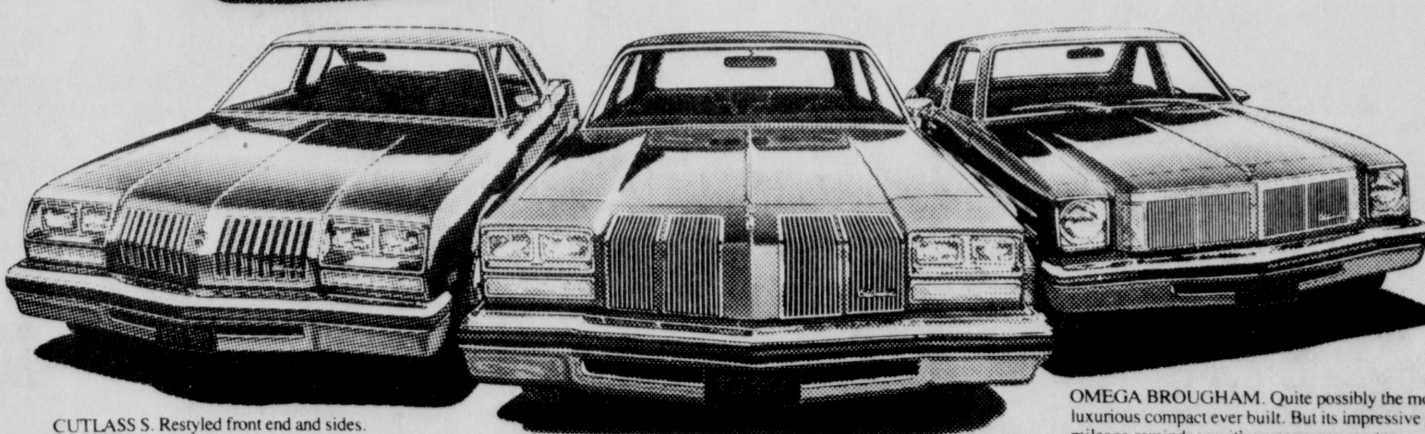

THE '76 REGENCY. Proof that the world of luxury doesn't have to ignore a concern for gas economy.

DELTA 88 ROYALE. All the solid dependability of a family-sized Olds. Yet the 88 gets good gas mileage for a car of its size.

STARFIRE. Who says you can't get good gas mileage in a sporty car? Check out Starfire. Starfire SX and the available Starfire GT option—Oldsmobile's supercoupes.

CUTLASS S. Restyled front end and sides. The new look is bolder, sportier. All this... and surprising gas economy, too.

CUTLASS SUPREME BROUGHAM. The first mid-sized car to have an interior inspired by the famous '68 Regency. The gas mileage is pretty inspiring, too.

A's celebration still on ice

By HOWARD SMITH
AP Sports Writer

The champagne in Oakland's dressing room has been on ice for three days — and so have the A's.

Oakland's magic number has been at one and holding since Saturday night when they stretched their American League West Division lead to eight games. Since then the Kansas City Royals have won three, the A's have lost three and the lead is down to five.

All of which leaves Oakland Manager Alvin Dark unmoved. "It would be silly to be concerned when you're five ahead with five to go," said Dark after the A's dropped a 4-3 decision to Minnesota Tuesday night. "To tell you the truth I'm really not concerned about anything."

"But," Dark added, "We'd like to win it soon and get it over with."

Kansas City kept its hopes alive with a 4-0 triumph over Texas but Royals' Manager Whitey Herzog smiled when asked about overtaking the A's. "They'll never lose that many games in a row," Herzog said. "We've won 89 games and I thought in the winter that 89 would win it."

Minnesota right-hander Bert Blyleven, 15-9, checked the A's on nine hits and struck out seven. Rod Carew doubled home a run for the Twins off Stan Bahnsen, 10-13, in the first, Steve Braun hit a sacrifice fly in the fifth and Dan Ford doubled home two runs in the eighth.

Bert Campaneris had a run-scoring single in the eighth for Oakland and Joe Rudi made it close with a two-out, two-run homer in the ninth.

A's ace Vida Blue goes for the clincher tonight against Chicago's Jesse Jefferson, 5-10.

Kansas City used four pitchers to two-hit the Rangers. Doug Bird started but left in the second inning after injuring his arm. Rookie Bob McClure came in and continued the no-hitter until Roy Smalley singled with one out in the seventh. Steve Mingori and Marty Pattin finished up.

McClure, a 22-year-old left-hander called up from Jacksonville of the Southern League last month, got his first major league victory with a six-inning, eight-strikeout stint.

Frank White hit a home run for the Royals and Amos Otis knocked in two runs with a double and sacrifice fly.

Indians 4, Brewers 3

George Hendrick hit his 24th home run of the season on Bill Travers' first pitch in the ninth inning to give Cleveland its victory. Boog Powell knocked in the other three Indian runs with his 26th homer.

The victory lifted the Tribe within two games of New York in the battle for third place in the AL East.

White Sox 5, Angels 4

Ken Henderson's solo home run in the seventh inning won it for Chicago.

Padres 6, Dodgers 4

Randy Jones tossed an eight-hitter to earn his 20th victory as San Diego defeated Los Angeles. Jones, 20-11, was 8-22 last season. He joined the Mets' Tom Seaver as the only 20-game winners in the National League. Reliever Stan Wall, 0-1, took the loss.

Reds 5, Astros 3

Tony Perez' run-scoring double in the fourth inning drove in what proved to be the winning run and Fred Norman and Rawly Eastwick scattered four hits as Cincinnati edged Houston.

Expos 7, Cardinals 0

Pete Mackanin drove in three runs with a triple and bases-loaded walk and Mike Jorgensen clubbed a two-run homer to power Montreal past St. Louis.

Mets 8, Cubs 6

Pinch-hitter John Stearns doubled home the tying run in the eighth inning and scored on Felix Millan's single as New York rallied from an early six-run deficit to defeat Chicago.

Flagg gets flag

ROCKFORD — Bob Flagg of Lambertville, Mich., fooled everyone when he won the 100-lap Intercontinental Classic for Mini-Stocks at Rockford Speedway Saturday night. Touring the Rockford quarter-mile oval in his '69 Volkswagen, Flagg quickly and quietly overtook his competition and took the lead much to the surprise of everyone except the scorers. Near the end of the 100-lap classic the flagman was giving Flagg the blue flag to move over for faster traffic, not realizing that Flagg's blue "bug" was the fastest of them all.

Finishing two and three in the 100-lapper were Forrest "Pee Wee" Baron of Holland, Ohio, and Gary Bowles of Edon, Ohio. Twenty-five-lap qualification races were won by Jay Acklin of Centerville, Pa., Bowles and Roger Arnhart of Kansas City, Kansas. The two 15-lap qualifiers were taken by Forrest DeMuth of Cecil, Ohio and Reiner Worner of Rockford. Don Hall of Williamston, West Va., was fast qualifier and won the trophy dash.

Winnebago — The Winnebago Indians swept the top three places and had seven harriers in the top 10 to defeat the

Sports roundup

MAPLE PARK — The Oswego Panthers grabbed both the varsity and sophomore divisions of the Kaneland Invitational, here, Saturday. Oregon was third, Amboy fifth and Ashton seventh on the sophomore level with Amboy fourth in the varsity.

On the frosh-soph level, the individual winner was Oswego's Dave Larson in one in 12:57.6 over 2½ miles. Oswego took the team title with 39 points. Kaneland was next with 57.

Jim Grady of Amboy was third, while Oregon teammates Marv Hollaway (10th), John Mershon (12th) and Dave Buhs (15th) were all in the top 15. Ashton finishers were John Martinez, 24th in 13:57; Ed Baylor, 26th in 14:00; Tom Krause, 29th in 14:05; Dean Dvorak, 53rd; Rick Fane 57th; Mick Townsend, 83rd and Chris Somers, 85th. Ashton's Gary Kofoid placed 32nd in the Open Division.

Junior tackle

The Washington Warriors evened their season record at 1-1 by pounding the Madison Tigers 40-6 Tuesday night at A. C. Bowers Field. Washington rolled to a 32-0 lead at half as Dave Draper scored two touchdowns and John Cole plus Ron Jordan collected one each.

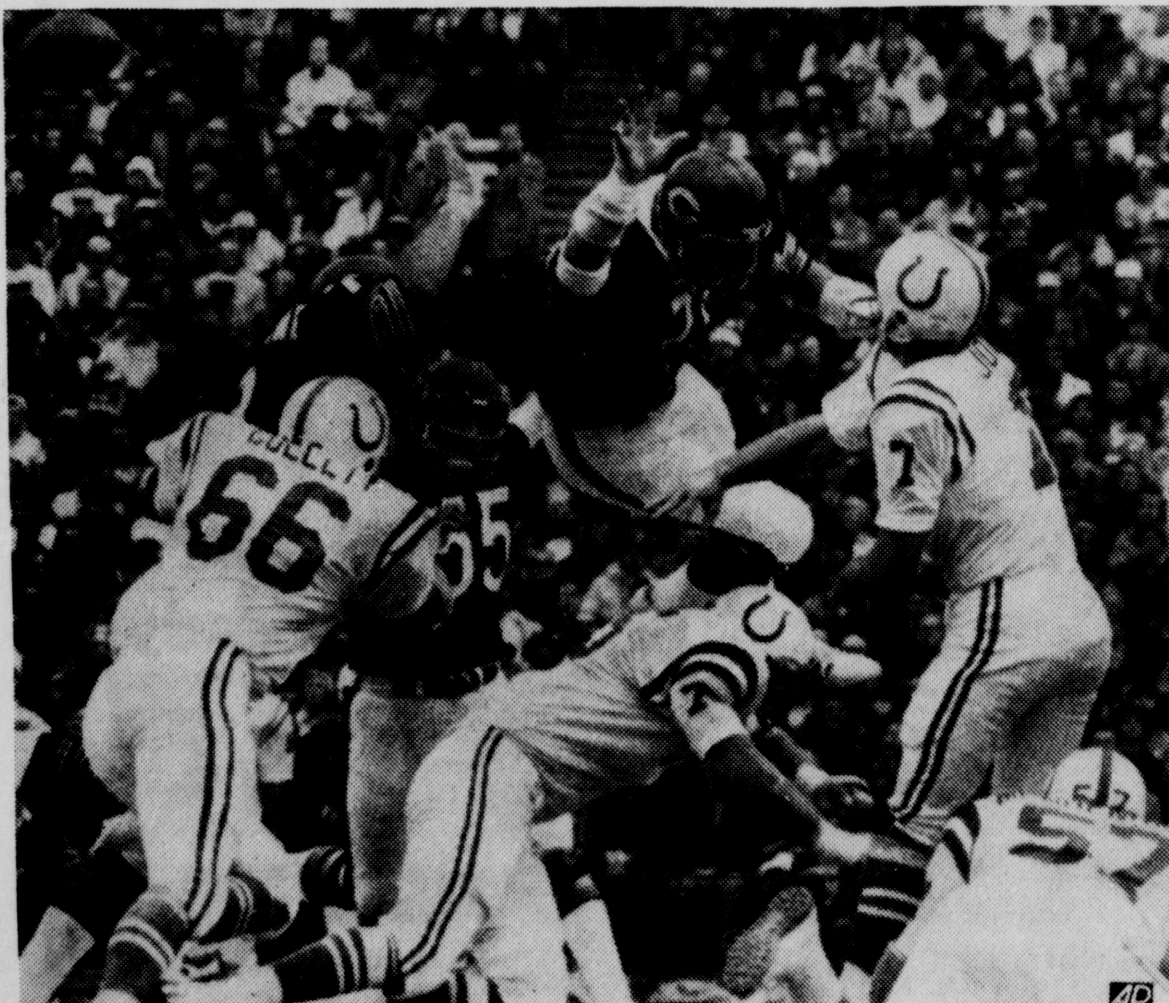

Cole scored the final Washington six-point in the final half and added five conversion runs. Don Elmendorf tallied the Madison touchdown on an end-around. John Martin was cited as doing a fine job at defensive end for Washington. Madison drops to 1-2 with the loss. Washington will play Jefferson in the second game Saturday with Lincoln and Madison squaring off in the first encounter.

Ashton Aces 18-41, at the Seward Forest Preserve, here, Tuesday.

Winnebago's Doug Droegemuller and Tom Barker took first and second, respectively, in 18:01 and 18:02 over three miles. Al Larson was third in 18:34 with Ashton's John Martinez fourth in 19:12. Steve Langley gave fifth to the home team in 19:52.

Tom Krause entered the chute in 21:01 for sixth for the Aces with Bill Leonard seventh (20:39) for Winnebago. Ashton's Ed Baylor grabbed eighth (20:55) with Winnebago's Jeff Bergholtz ninth (20:56) and Bill Nemath 10th (21:26).

Four Ashton harriers rounded out the field with Rick Fane (21:41), Gary Kofoid (22:50), Dean Dvorak (23:18) and Mick Townsend (24:13) finishing in that order. Ashton will now take part in the Dixon Invitational on Saturday.

CHICAGO BEARS Roger Stillwell, center, makes flying leap as he tries to block pass by Baltimore Colts' Bert Jones (7) in Chicago during the opening game of the NFL season. Others in on the play are Bears Mike Hartenstein and Doug Buffone (55), and Colts Elmer Collett (66), Ed George (73) and Ken Mendenhall (57). The pass was incomplete, but the Colts trampled the Bears 35-7. (AP Wirephoto)

CHICAGO — Crushed in their NFL opener Sunday, the Chicago Bears will attempt to regroup this weekend when the Philadelphia Eagles invade Soldier Field for the first time. Kickoff is scheduled for 1:06 p.m. Sunday. At the close of business last Friday, the Bears had 5,551 tickets remaining for the contest.

New Bear head coach Jack Pardee set the tempo for Chicago's pre-game preparation in the lockerroom after the 35-7 blast by the Baltimore Colts: "Sure, I'm disappointed by what happened today. But I'm not giving up on this team or this season. . . and I don't want anyone around who is. We're going to put it all together this year."

Regrouping against the Eagles could be especially difficult for the young Bears when: 1, Philadelphia had hoped to establish itself as a title threat early in the season but instead got clipped by the New York Giants 23-14; 2, seven Bears were listed on the club's injury list Sunday including three (Doug Plank, Ted Vactor and Nemiah Wilson) of their seven deep backs and two (Ron Shanklin and George Farmer) of their four wide receivers.

The Eagles will be attempting to capitalize on Chicago's injury-forced adjustments as the Colts did efficiently. Baltimore limited the Bears to 18 rushes for 47 yards while quarterback Bert Jones was completing 15 of 24 throws for 177 yards.

"We need time to mature as a team," said Pardee. "We've got to play with intensity in all phases of the game. It will come."

Underscoring the need for maturity, the Bears started eight NFL rookies in the opener: guard Noah Jackson, center Dan Peiffer, tackle Jeff Sevy, running back Walter Payton, tight end Greg Latta, defensive end Mike Hartenstein, defensive tackle Roger Stillwell, and free safety Doug Plank. In all, the Bears list 14 first-year men on their 43-man roster and have an average of 2.84 years experience.

The Bears fielded one of the NFL's most impressive defensive units in the pre-season. They will have to return to that pre-season form against an explosive Eagle offense that features the passing arms of Roman Gabriel and Mike Boryla and the hands of Harold Carmichael and Charles Young.

Despite the injuries to the receiving corps and a rebuilt line, the Chicago offense must get better against Philadelphia if the Bears are to win their first NFL game of the year.

"The timing is off on the passing game primarily because of the injuries to the receivers. We were going wide with only Bo Rather and Bob Grim and Grim has only been with us for a couple of weeks. (Rather missed practice last week with flu.) It will improve," predicts Pardee.

"Bobby Douglass threw well to (tight end) Greg Latta (3 for 57) probably because they've been together now since July. When the others get back, it should pick up."

It's doubtful if another NFL team will clamp rookie running back Walter Payton in Baltimore's style. The Colts permitted Payton zero yards in his eight rushing attempts and one reception for a minus four yards.

With nowhere to go but up, the Bears look forward to closing their three-game home stand with a victory over the Eagles Sunday. The following three Sundays will find the Bears in Minnesota, Detroit and Pittsburgh.

Bear Facts: This 56th Chicago Bear team is composed of 25 Chicago draftees, 13 players obtained in trades (including nine this season), two players awarded via waivers (LB John Babinecz and K Bob Thomas) and three free agents (S Bill Knox, RB Tom Donchez, and C Dan Peiffer). The average Bear is 25.3 years old, has 2.84 seasons of NFL experience, stands 6-2, and weighs 221.9 pounds. Fourteen of Chicago's 43-man roster are first (6) or second (8) round draft picks.

Today in History

By The Associated Press
Today is Wednesday, Sept. 24, the 267th day of 1975. There are 98 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1955, President Dwight Eisenhower suffered a heart attack while on vacation in Denver.

On this date: In 1780, during the Revolutionary War, Benedict Arnold escaped to a British ship after attempting to betray the West Point fortifications on the Hudson River.

In 1789, the U.S. Supreme Court was being formed, and President George Washington named John Jay of New York as the first Chief Justice.

In 1869, there was panic on Wall Street after an attempt by financiers Jay Gould and James Fisk to corner the gold market.

In 1934, Babe Ruth made his farewell appearance as a regular player with the New York Yankees.

In 1941, in World War Two, Allied governments pledged adherence to the Atlantic Charter.

In 1963, the U.S. Senate ratified a treaty with Britain and the Soviet Union limiting nuclear tests.

Ten years ago: The Soviet Union renewed its call for a non-aggression pact between the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and the Communist Warsaw Treaty Organization.

Five years ago: Jordan's King Hussein appeared to be gaining the upper hand in fighting with Palestinian guerrilla forces in northern Jordan.

One year ago: The U.S. House of Representatives voted to suspend military aid to Turkey until substantial progress was made toward a settlement on Cyprus.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You'll have some doubts about the way you handle a serious situation today. Later, you'll see the decision you made was a wise one.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) If you put on your old thinking cap you'll find a way to buy something without putting your budget in jeopardy.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) A problem facing you today will not take as long as you think to solve. Keep your schedule flexible. You might get a surprise invitation later in the day.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You'll fare much better in business matters than you did yesterday, especially if you go in with a positive attitude.

LEO (July 23-Aug 22) You can easily get others to go along with your way of doing things today if you guide, rather than push them.

VIRGO (Aug 23-Sept 22) The next few days can be beneficial careerwise if you keep your nose to the wheel. A job well done could increase your earnings.

LIBRA (Sept 23-Oct 23) You tend to look at the darker side at first today, but fortunately you'll realize every situation has many bright facets.

SCORPIO (Oct 24-Nov 22) Personal gain will come your way today through several unusual channels. The sources are not likely to be related.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov 23-Dec 21) You're exceptionally sharp at negotiation today, if you put your mind to it. It's a good time for some horse trading.

CAPRICORN (Dec 22-Jan 19) Be willing to be of service to others where you can. Your good deeds will be the seeds for a future harvest.

AQUARIUS (Jan 20-Feb 19) Your personality doesn't come into full bloom till later in the day. That's when you'll collect your admirers.

PISCES (Feb 20-March 20) You still have a lot of things going for you that aren't apparent to those you'll be dealing with today. That's why you'll come up a winner.

Sept. 25, 2975

Conditions having an influence on your well-being will be far more stable this year than they were last year. Several things you've been hoping for will become realities.

The Worry Clinic

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE
CASE E-675: Beth G., aged 27, is the wife who was too embarrassed to tell her physician her secret sex problem.

"So I underwent two surgical operations," she ruefully confessed, "and still was no better off than when I started!"

"But, Dr. Crane, when my husband studied your booklet 'Sex Problems in Marriage,' he eliminated my frigidity the very first night!"

"And that boosted my feminine morale tremendously, for I had become actually depressed, thinking I wasn't all there as a woman!"

"However, even though I now know all the ecstasy that complete sexual union offers a devoted wife, I still am much less passionate than is my husband."

"And other wives to whom I have talked, also admit their mates are far more erotic than they are."

"A couple of exceptions in our Women's Club are sterile wives who are so obsessed with a mania to have a baby, that they constantly take the aggressor role in their boudoir."

"Dr. Crane, why are so many unnecessary surgical operations taking place?"

"For with the erotic technique you explain in your sex booklet, I could have avoided my unnecessary visits to the hospital."

In our college textbook "Psychology Applied," my sons and I have included an entire chapter titled "Psychology Goes to the Hospital."

And on page 712 of that text, we quote famous Dr. Walter Alvarez, who analyzed a series of 385 patients who had undergone appendectomies.

But 58 per cent of the 385 were unnecessary and unwarranted as per the hospital pathologists' microscopic examination of the excised appendices!

That means that the surgeons, even though aided by all the lab tests of modern hospitals, hit it right only 42 per cent of the time!

But a newspaper boy, by merely flipping a coin, could have rated a 50 per cent batting average!

So why this excess of unmerited surgical operations? On that same page of our textbook, we also cited the survey made by Dr. James C. Doyle (U. of California) who analyzed 6,248 partial or complete womb removals (hysterectomies).

Alas, 40 per cent (two out of every five) were also unwarranted per the hospital pathologists' reports!

For fads occur in surgery, as witnessed by the rash of breast amputations (mastectomies) this year, following those of Mrs. Gerald Ford and Mrs. Nelson Rockefeller.

Besides, many topnotch surgeons are under veiled pressure by their hospitals to produce a steady volume of cash business for the hospital business office.

For many surgeons are now rated on the amount of money they channel through the hospital's cash register!

Please don't think I belittle the splendid surgery now available in America, especially WHEN IT IS INDICATED!

At our Northwestern Medical School, however, we doctors were taught NOT to resort to surgery until all the simple or "Horse Sense" remedies were tried first!

Nowadays surgery is often a society fad (as shown in Beth's two needless operations) to remedy psychosomatic problems.

In fact, I've had patients who had submitted to as many as six operations here in Chicago and at the Mayo Clinic, yet all they needed was a booklet "Sex Problems in Marriage," so enclose a long stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents, and use "Horse Sense" before costly surgery!

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of Dixon Evening Telegraph, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

HOUSE hunting? There's no better "hunting ground" than the "Rental" columns in the Dixon Evening Telegraph.
